IMPROVISATION Scenario's

2 Characters: Friends

* You have been friends “forever” and think you know all there is to know about each other. You are about to tell your friend something they don’t know about you (both of you reveal a secret). What does this do to your friendship?

* You are growing apart as friends - you have little in common now - how do you deal with it?

* One has done something really awful, which is against the values of the other - what happens?

* You just found out the other have told someone else your secret - now it’s getting all over the school.

* Your friend is embarrassing to you because they dress funny and listen to outdated music.

* Your friend is interested in dating your brother/sister - you are appalled.

* You catch your friend shoplifting - you are caught with her even though you didn’t take anything. The police are being called as you wait in the manager’s office.

* You are waiting in your friend’s room and begin to read her/his diary. The friend walks in and catches you.

* Your friend is really drunk/high and is in bad shape. This has been happening all too often. You have an alcoholic parent.

* Your friend says something which really hurts your feelings but you decide to try to hide it. It causes a strain.

* You find out your friend asked someone else to a movie and you are feeling left out - it has happened several times.

* You are seeing an old friend for the first time in a year. You remember all the fun times - but after that there is nothing to talk about.

* you get in a huge fight - it gets out of hand quickly, name calling and accusations - how is it resolved?

* Your friend and your boy/girl friend cheated on you with one another.

* Your friend “borrows” your favorite jacket/shirt and then loses or wrecks it.

* your friend has an annoying habit they are unaware of, and it drives you crazy.

* your friend has become very depressed for the past few months, and you are worried about the suicidal comments they have been making lately.

* your friend is pregnant (or is the father) and doesn't know what to do.
